Internet Explorer Hidden Menu Bar

Often there are important tools and functions needed in the Menu bar at the top of your Internet Explorer browser. These tools can help you view and change settings as needed, as well as give you more information about your browser. Sometimes this bar can be hidden, especially if you have just recently upgraded to a newer version of Internet Explorer.

Shortcut
Clicking the ALT key will generally unhide the menu. If it does not, please follow the below instructions

To Unhide the Menu Bar
Right click at the top of your browser window

A window will open that will show you different tool bar options. Click the Menu Bar to unhide this toolbar.
You should see the menu bar is now displayed.
